Module 1: "Stewardship In Scripture" by Bruce Barkhauer

The objective of this course is for students to engage the biblical witness and its broad perspective of the concept of stewardship. Participants in the class will develop an understanding that stewardship is about more than money. The successful student will be able to articulate stewardship as a spiritual discipline and point to passages that elucidate concepts of creation care, Sabbath observation, self-care, gospel care, and the management of resources.

There are four audio-graphic video sessions in this course. Students are expected to watch each video, do the assigned reading and post comments and respond to the questions posed for each session in the Class Forum. There will be three conference calls scheduled with the instructor during the duration of the course.
